THE ARCHBISHOP WAS UPSET.

What caused the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of Winchester a very bad quarter of an hour's anxiety took place at Buckingham Palace immediately before the royal wedding, and the contretemps might have had a very serious result, says the London Chronicle.

Both the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of Winchester forwarded their clerical robes early on Wednesday morning to Buckingham Palace, directing them to be sent to the robing room, which had been set apart for the assembly of the clergy, and where they were to dress for the wedding service. The two high dignitaries of the church arrived in good time in order to robe, but not a vestige of their surplices or other ecclesiastical could be found. The Archbishop was extremely anxious, and so also were all the palace officials, and the time was drawing nigh for the clergy procession to the chapel, and yet the missing lawn was not to be found. At last Lord Edward Pelham Clinton was informed of the impending catastrophe, and he at once sent a complete army of court officials to work to search every room in use for the missing robes. They were eventually found in another room, but only just in time for the Archbishop and Bishop of Winchester to dress and hurry to the chapel. The other clergy had brought their vestments with them, and so were ready long before the time. The Archbishop, it is said, was very much upset by the contretemps. Some servant or another, not knowing the robing room, had misplaced the portmanteau bearing the robes in the wrong room.

COW CHASED HER USTAINS.—Mrs. George Baker, of Greenport, L. I., had a lively experience yesterday with a cow owned by Noritz Kavin of Center street. The cow had been chased by a crowd of children, and Mrs. Baker, believing she would be knocked down by the animal, ran in the house. Mrs. Baker scrambled up the stairs, followed by the frightened cow, while the cow was followed by the children. Mrs. Baker got inside her door just as the cow reached the top of the stairs. Her husband came to her assistance and got the cow down stairs.

SOMETHING TO KNOW.
It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nervous centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids those organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at E. L. Allen's Drug Store.

Mrs. Rhodie Noah, of this place, was taken in the night with cramping pains and the next day diarrhoea set in. She took half a bottle of blackberry cordial but got no relief. She then sent to me to see if I had anything that would help her. I sent her a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and the first dose relieved her. Another of our neighbors had been sick for about a week and had tried different remedies for diarrhoea but kept getting worse. I sent him the same remedy. Only four doses of it were required to cure him. He says he owes his recovery to this wonderful medicine. Mrs. Mary Sibley, Sidney, Mich. For sale by L. Stabler & Co., Drugists.

ALEXANDRIA, VA., THURSDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 17, 1896.

[COMMUNICATED.]
A BOLT AT BOLTERS.—It is beyond me to comprehend how one who calls himself a democrat can vote in favor of the republican party.

The "bolting democrats" are surely unable to elect their own candidate, but they may possibly cause the defeat of Bryan. Knowing these facts these men must possess consciences which give them very little trouble. They are men who will rejoice in the election of McKinley and who will find it very difficult to explain to democratic Alexandria how they remain what they call themselves, i. e., democrats.

It may not be out of season to suggest that in the event McKinley is elected Palmerites will receive no thanks from the true democratic party, and will certainly be left in the cold by all republicans, and when monopoly and high tariff and money scarcity, and perhaps a force bill are installed supreme, it will be useless to try to bolt from this authority and power.

When men, calling themselves democrats, under the thin guise of "sound money principles" have succeeded in again debauching the people's interests and subjecting their fellow citizens to unprincipled despotism, these men, these democrats, will find that their action has awarded them nought but the just indignation of every home in Alexandria.

ENGLISH POSTOFFICES PAY.—The English postoffice department is the only institution of the sort in the world that brings a big revenue to the Government. Last year the total number of packages of all kinds delivered in the United Kingdom was 3,030,527,000, an average of 77 to each inhabitant. The total profit to the government from the charges for transmission was $16,160,610.

These are the top notch figures that that British postal records show. They indicate a heavy increase in the amount of mail handled, and also show careful business management, which the civil service reformers are quick to claim is the result of the rigid enforcement of their ideas.

That the same spirit of carelessness on our own postal authorities note is abroad in Britain is shown by the fact that 31,875 letters were posted last year that were without addresses. Over half a million dollars was found in letters that were opened in the English dead letter office.

THE FEAT OF A DIVER.—Kearney P. Speedy, a diver hailing from the West, made a dive from the new Macomb's Dam bridge over the Harlem, at New York, at noon on Tuesday. On the pretense of raising its height, he asked leave to climb the steel superstructure. The engineer and bridge watchman were at dinner at the time, but the assistant engineer did not object. A number of persons gathered to witness the spectacle. Speedy gained the summit on the second try. "I lose," he cried. The diver then raised his hands and plunged into the air twenty feet clear of the bridge. His body sank down into the water. He soon emerged and swam easily to the shore. A friend met him with dry clothes and the two hurried away. The police were nowhere in sight. Speedy says that he is the champion diver of the world, and has dived 150 feet. He is anxious to dive from the Brooklyn bridge.
